Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a princess dress of white lace over satin with a scalloped neckline and long sleeves. Her veil of white illusion net fell from a Juliet cap of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white orchids surrounded by Stephanotis.

Miss Charlotte Claar of Oregon City, dressed in a green nylon organza ballerina frock, was maid of honor. Miss Ruth Hayden was bridesmaid and Gale Feldman flower girl. Both wore pink.

The newlyweds are spending the summer in Oregon at Crater Lake before returning to college in the fall.

MRS. RONALD ANDERSON ... Makes Promises

... Ann Landers

I've seen his bankbook and it's all jumbled up, but I've caught on how to read it. He always has a nice balance, yet when I ask for money to buy the kids shoes or winter coats, he pretends he has to borrow from the bank.

I have no money of my own and no allowance. I don't know what we own or what's in the savings account. He claims since HE earns the money he has a right to manage it. I hope you'll answer in the paper because I'm sure other women must be also—IN THE DARK.

DEAR IN THE DARK: You must be a brand new reader. I repeatedly bang away that marriage is a partnership. A woman with five children is contributing her share, and merely because she doesn't bring in a paycheck doesn't mean she's not entitled to know what's going on.

Insist that he sit down with you, spell out a budget and go through the entire financial picture. And demand that he give you an allowance. No wife should have to beg for money. If it reaches a crisis tell him you're going to talk this over with your clergyman. I doubt that he'll go THAT far.

To learn how to keep your husband in line without losing him, send for ANN LANDERS' new book, "Necking and Popping—And How Far to Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Copyright 1959, Field Enterprises, Inc.)
